Cheyenne Lewis serves as an Associate Attorney at ZKS, where she specializes in commercial litigation with an emphasis on labor and employment law. She has built a strong practice in civil litigation since graduating magna cum laude from the Florida State University College of Law.

In her current role, Cheyenne represents clients in a variety of labor and employment matters, including wage and hour investigations, harassment and discrimination claims, as well as the development of comprehensive employment policies, handbooks, and contracts. She serves as a committee member on the Labor and Employment Section of the Florida Bar's Wage and Hour Committee and its EEOC and FEPA Committee. Her practice additionally includes work in the areas of general commercial litigation, education law, debt collection, landlord/tenant litigation, trust and probate litigation, and other real property litigation.

During her time at law school, Cheyenne honed her legal acumen as a Staff Editor for the Florida State University Law Review and was an active participant in the Florida State University College of Law Trial Team.

Outside of her professional commitments, Cheyenne enjoys quality time with her husband and dogs, exploring all the local restaurants Orlando has to offer, and cheering on the Noles.
